FLAGET DEMOGRAPHICS

The museum keeps a graduates book available at the museum which is updated yearly showing the status of all Flaget graduates. This book was just updated on March 1st and today is on a table in the front of the hall for anyone who may wish to view it. The book will be back in the museum later this week. Also in the front of the hall is a map showing the current state of residence of the Flaget graduates. I did this once a few years ago with many positive comments received.

Over the years that I have been the curator of the museum many people have contacted me seeking information of one type or another on the school or those that attended. I am always happy if I can help you out by supplying this type of information if possible. Many of the records, which would be helpful in supplying information on the students and the school, are not available at the museum. This missing information is held at the University of Notre Dame in their Catholic archives. Notre Dame is the repository for the United States for all Catholic informational records that are not kept at the schools. When a Catholic church, parish, or school or for that matter any Catholic institution is closed the many records associated with that institution are not just discarded. These records are sent to the archives at Notre Dame if no other entity such as a diocese or religious order retains them.

As always the museum is accepting donations for display and research. Any memorabilia from the time the school was open is sought. Athletic programs, Landmark newspapers, Flaget jewelry, and just about anything else is most appreciated. Just bring anything you may wish to donate to any alumni luncheon, drop the items off at the museum, or call me if you need me to pick the items up.
